SUMMARY

Curatorial and conservation interns will work closely with museum staff to assist with the cataloging, inventory, conservation, and curation of the archives and collections at the Dominguez Rancho Adobe Museum. Interns gain experience working with PastPerfect, a museum archiving software, to document and catalog museum objects. They will also assist with arranging, recording and/or editing finding aids to facilitate access to materials in the repository. Interns may also be requested to research conservation techniques and create descriptions for artifacts. Opportunities to assist with preventative conservation and the curation of small exhibit displays are limited but available. Those interested in curation will likely be requested to conduct historical academic research to support advancing projects.
